

4th Annual Teaching Peace in Texas Schools Conference

Saturday
October 11, 2008
St. Martin's Lutheran
606 W 15th St.
Austin

*We learn as we are taught,
and do as we are shown.*

- Mindy Carpenter

Join educators from throughout the state to learn better strategies and find new ways to build more peaceful and violence-free Texas schools. Participate in the latest workshops, learn from speakers, and gather materials for peace and nonviolence education in our state. Workshop categories include: Creating a Culture of Peace, Gangs and Bullies, Personal Peace, Nonviolence Curriculum, Teaching Strategies and Alternative Options for Youth.

Keynote Speaker: Jennifer DeLeon – college graduate, wife, mother, anti-gang activist – recently testified before Congress on matters related to gang prevention. A former gang member, she'll talk about how she turned her life around and how hope for other young people is within sight.

Partial list of 2008 workshop titles:

- Proactive strategies to end bullying in the schools
- Ending the Cycle of Violence; a program for use in the schools
- Know what I mean: how our inability to understand each other contributes to violence
- Gang violence as a product of the community and the change that must come to both
- Relationship violence among students: recognizing the signs and ending the abuse
